Congratulations to Sierra Rowland, Flandra Ismajli, Sarah Serralta, and Ardhys De Leon for receiving the 2018 Moms Project Scholarship Awards at a breakfast held on April 3rd at the Marshall Student Center. The ceremony was attended by the award recipients, their Moms and mentors, donors, and other special guests. This impressive group of students are working on meaningful undergraduate research projects with their faculty mentors. The Moms Project, a scholarship fund established by USF employees to honor their mothers, supports undergraduate students pursuing research in the College of Behavioral & Community Sciences. Here are the award recipients for 2018:

Flandra Ismajli - Major: Social Work, Sociology
Project Title: Nutrition Enhancement among Individuals Diagnosed with Psychiatric, Developmental, and Physical Disabilities
Faculty Mentors: Drs. Mary Armstrong and Roger Boothroyd

Ardhys De Leon - Major: Psychology and Minor: Behavioral Healthcare
Project Title: The Relationship of Marchman Act Protective Custody Holds During Emerging Adulthood and Baker Act Examinations During Childhood
Faculty Mentors: Drs. Kathy Moore and Annette Christy

Sarah Serralta - Major: Communication Sciences & Disorders
Project Title: Stress and Burnout in Interpreter Training Students
Faculty Mentor: Samantha Thomas

Sierra Rowland - Major: Behavioral Healthcare, Public Health
Project Title: Stakeholder Perceptions of Prenatal Substance Use in Hillsborough County
Faculty Mentors: Drs. Kathy Moore and Norin Dollard

From Left to Right: Sierra Rowland, Flandra Ismajli, Sarah Serralta, Ardhys De Leon