

Department of Criminology

Research Series

Presenter

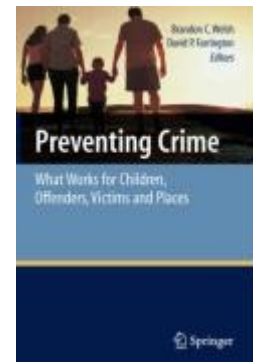

David P. Farrington, Ph.D.

Cambridge University

Institute of Criminology

*“Saving Children from a Life of Crime: The Benefits Greatly
Outweigh the Costs!”*

David P. Farrington, O.B.E. is a Professor of Psychological Criminality at Cambridge University, England, where he has earned his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D in psychology. He is the 2013 Stockholm Prize for Criminology Award winner for his pioneering research on life-course criminology, the evaluation of prevention programs for at-risk youth and the identification of psychological and developmental risk factors for criminal behavior. His evidence based research based largely upon his work with the Cambridge Study of Delinquent Development, the longest running longitudinal study in criminology, has published 95 books, more than 600 journal articles and book chapters on criminological and psychological topics. He is the first non-American president of the American Society of Criminology, a Fellow of the British Academy and the Academy of Medical Sciences, former President of the British Psychological Society, former fellow at the U.S. Bureau of Justice Statistics, and more.

Faculty, Staff and Students are Invited
Monday, November 18, 10:30 Conference Room 351