

New Course Spring 2013

College of Behavioral and Community Sciences

GEY 6934: Community Services in an Aging Society

Thursdays at 5:15

This graduate course offers you an opportunity to study in depth the history, development, and application of current public policies and programs that impact the lives of older persons, their families and the communities in which they live. The evolution of aging policy in the context of four major programs—Social Security, The Older Americans Act, Medicaid, Medicare will also be examined within the broader historical context of American social policy. The scope of these programs and policies and future implications will be examined.

For more information, contact
Dr. Debra Dobbs
School of Aging Studies
974-5767
ddobbs@usf.edu